

ABC HELP SYSTEM for GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT
UPDATE 2015

ARCADIO B. CUENCO, JR

Next

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

This ABC Help System for Government Procurement Update 2015 was created with the help of the following students who were
On-the-Job Trainees of the Commission on Audit:

1. Christine Mae M. Romero
2. Hannah Talishakum P. Naval
3. Evy Rose L. Lacanlale

Arcadio B. Cuenco, Jr.
Assistant Commissioner

Back / Next

Foreword

Work in government has been made difficult and risky by the sea of laws, rules, and regulations(LRRs) that has inundated the bureaucracy. Oversight agencies, regulatory bodies, and legislative bodies churn out every year volumes and volumes of new policies, standards, guidelines, procedures, manuals, and rules prescribing in great detail the steps to be followed in executing all manner of decisions/activities/functions of all units and in all levels of the government, specifying also the sanctions and penalties for any misstep. The problem is exacerbated by the failure of these rule-producing bodies to identify and scrap the old rules and policies that have been made obsolete by the new ones.

There is the therefore a need for a tool that would help government workers, including those who do business with government, navigate this ocean of LRRs. It is with this need in mind that ABC Help System was conceived to help make the navigation of this ocean of rules as easy as ABC.

This first product of ABC Help System is in the area of government procurement- a basic function in all units of the government, that used to be simple but has now evolved into a complicated risky intricate process.

Hopefully this help system will provide the user with the tools to navigate this complex area of government service and the guidance to reach his destination safely.

Arcadio B. Cuenco, Jr.

Back